

Does bamboo plant need sunlight are you tired of having normal plants in your house We suggest you to try lucky bamboo plants. They are very beautiful plans did you can keep inside the house or outside but if you keeping it outside you should pay so much attention to what plant needs.

Sunlight, is it bad or good

In this topic we are talking about one of the most important thing that you should pay attention if you are keeping a lucky bamboo plant, And it is sunlight.

Like every other plants Bamboo plants need sunlight but not the way you think you might wonder what is odd about giving a plant sunlight I must say bamboo plants are very sensitive to direct sunlight and if you put them where son shines right up on them your plant will definitely die, But if you have enough chance and before your plant is dead you notice that your plants leaves are turning into yellow and you save them and put them in a shady place safe from direct sunlight you might have a chance to save your plant but if it takes too long for you to notice it And stem of the plant turns into yellow, your plant is gone for good And there is no way to save it.

Best place for your bamboo plant

Best place for your plant to grow safely are shady places In your house or apartment but Always have in mind that If you are keeping something shiny near them, they might reflect does Sun's light And if the plant is also exposed to that light you also might face some problems and there is risk of your plant to die.

Other harmful things to your plant

Remember sunlight is one of the factors that you should pay attention if you are keeping a bamboo plant, other factors like water, soil and etc are mentioned in the other topic that you can read from link down below.

Reference:

<https://apartmentflowers.com/does-bamboo-plant-need-sunlight/>